Paella

Paella originated in the region of Valencia as workers in the fields would make the rice dish with whatever they could find and cook it over a wood fire. It is traditionally made only at lunch time and eaten directly out of the pan in which it is cooked. Today paella is made in every region of Spain and there are as many versions as there are cooks. Ours is a colorful mixture of saffron rice, chicken, pork, clams, mussels, shrimp, scallops, and vegetables.

Savor the flavors of the national dish of Spain!
